"Try Not The Pass" Warning to Tourists

Many Cars Stalled in Snowdrifts
Around Crow's Nest Lake--
Shipping via C. P. R.

This has been a disastrous week for tourists, nearly twenty cars having become stranded here over the weekend, and on Tuesday nine were loaded on flat cars to be shipped as far as Cranbrook and Elk, where the owners would decide if they would unload or transport their cars further by rail, depending on the state of the roads.

Many of the tourists caught state that their difficulties have been caused to some extent by absolutely incorrect information being given them at towns further east, where they were told that it would be alright to go ahead, as the road through the Crow's Nest Pass would be open. On Sunday three cars belonging to Elliott's Family Orchestra, who have been touring Western Canada during the summer, attempted to make the trip through the west, but were stranded at Crow's Nest Lake, and on Monday were brought back to town, as further progress was deemed impossible. On Tuesday, they and six other cars were loaded on to C. P. R. cars here to be shipped to Elk, and there were fourteen more cars at Crow's Nest Station awaiting shipment. One car with a family party of seven had come from 150 miles north of Edmonton, and turned back from the lake to go the balance of their journey to Vancouver by rail. Some of the parties remained out all Sunday night, and suffered greatly from the cold, despite making fires from the timber, and as there were some women in the parties, they were practically exhausted from the effects of the near zero temperature.

It is reported that one man with a team collected $70 in pulling cars, and some of the stranded tourists who were returning from the harvest fields on the prairies had very little cash, consequently they were hard put to it for purchasing supplies.

Speaking of the snow blockade this week, P. N. Christopher, M. L. A., of Blairmore, stated that he had received word from the highways department that they would pay the cost of cars being hauled out, but would not agree to keep the roads open during the winter, as if they did in one district, they would have requests from the whole province, and the expense of clearing and keeping open 2600 miles of highways would be too heavy.

The Elliott Family Orchestra referred to previously, are making their fourth trip through the Pass, having been touring for a number of years, and this is their first experience of this nature. They are en route to Vancouver, and they figure that with their unforeseen expenses of shipping cars and commercial business they would be around a thousand dollars out of pocket by the time they reach their destination. Others of the tourists, such as the harvesters, it is stated will have to leave their cars through lack of money to pay the expense of moving them.

McGillivray Mine Disaster Inquiry Steadily Proceeding

Stories of Miners Before Judicial Commission Reveal Acts of Heroism in Trying to Help Mates to Safety--Mine Was Well Ventilated--Cause of the Disaster Still a Mystery

The inquiry into the cause of the explosion at McGillivray mine on Nov. 23, 1927, opened in the Odd Fellows hall on Tuesday morning before Chief Justice Harvey, who was appointed by the provincial government as commissioner of the inquiry. Counsel for the commissioner appointed were H. H. Parlee, K. C., of Edmonton, and H. Ostlund, K. C., of Lethbridge. Technical experts from the mines branch, Ottawa, are also present to assist the commission.

The Chief Justice Harvey in opening the proceedings stated the purpose of the inquiry, and remarked on the risks attached to the mining industry. It was to try and prevent similar disasters such as occurred last year that this inquiry was being held, to endeavor to find out the cause. He was desirous of securing all the facts bearing on the explosion, and to ascertain if possible to expert knowledge the cause. He asked those testifying at the inquiry to be as clear as possible in giving information to the commission, as personally he was not familiar with mining terms but wished to have everything brought out as clearly as possible in order to help the work of the commission.

Mr. Parlee, for the commission, first called on Mr. Moses Johnson, district inspector of mines, to explain the nature of the mine workings where the explosion occurred and also the system of working the seams, the formation of the coal seams, ventilation and other details which would make as clear as possible the conditions existing where the accident occurred, which was at the north face of Level No. 4, Seam 2, of the McGillivray mine.

Mr. Johnson, by the aid of maps and diagrams of mine workings showed very clearly the system followed, known as the "Pillar and Room" system in mining coal in these mountains.

Following the conclusion of the morning sitting, the commissioners decided to spend the afternoon in visiting the McGillivray mine in order to acquaint himself with the system of mine working and to get a close-up view of the scene of the disaster. It is expected that the inquiry will last well into the week.

Besides the counsel for the commission, H. H. Parlee, K. C. and H. Ostlund, K. C., there are present W. S. Gray, of the attorney-general's department, Edmonton; J. G. S. Hudson, mines department, Ottawa; A. L. Smith and J. E. McLeod, K. C., representing the McGillivray Creek Coal and Coke Co., Ltd.; J. A. Richards, acting chief inspector of mines, and representatives of manufacturers of explosives interested in the inquiry.

A difficulty that was apparent at the opening session was the use of mining terms, the meanings of which were at times confusing, as there did not appear to be a uniform method of description of terms among those giving information to the commission, a fact which was remarked on by the chief counsel to the commissioners. This was partly the reason that the afternoon was taken up with a visit to the mine by the commission, in order that the evidence may be given more clearly.

Members of Royal Family Pay Hundred Pounds for Poppies

The King and Queen and the Prince of Wales paid £100 ($500) each for their poppies. The Armistice Day sale of poppies was for the fund of the British Legion of Empire Service League, which, under Earl Haig, the president, looks after the interests of ex-service men in need of assistance.

The sales on last Armistice Day totalled £450,000, and it is hoped that the sale of poppies this year will realize £500,000 or more.

After having been entertained at a theatre supper, Thursday night, 600 limbless ex-service men attended at midnight service at St. Martin-in-the-Fields, Trafalgar Square.

Armistice Night Is Observed by Legion

Members Gather at Club Rooms and Hear Address by Mayor Burns

In honor of the ninth anniversary of the signing of the Armistice, Coleman branch of the Canadian Legion held an enjoyable smoker last Friday evening, presided over by Thos. Johnson, chairman of the school board, when a very interesting and amusing program was given by members in song and story. The main address was given by Mayor Burns, as follows:

"Armistice Day is celebrated in all of our Dominion, and even the most unfortunate and unhappy of us can find some cause to give thanks for what the year has brought for us.

We are in enjoyment of a glorious peace and overflowing plenty. We should keep to-day with joyful hearts for so fair land and such wonderful heritage in this land of promise. As today is our ninth anniversary of the end of the Great War. Every person in Canada should give special thought as to how war can be prevented. We should do our best to establish ideals of world peace; cultivate a feeling of goodwill towards other nations and endeavor by reading and thinking to get the viewpoint of the peoples of foreign countries and concentrate upon similarities of interest rather than differences. In this way I feel the awful sacrifice of life will not have been spent in vain. The enormous magnitude of the Great War is almost beyond the average man's conception. The total number of men mobilized by all the nations taking part in the war was 56,076,864; the grand total of casualties was 38,434,448, so that at the signing of the Armistice there were 26,242,421 men then bearing arms.

The dead numbered 7,744,886, the seriously wounded or missing totalled 25,761,837. The suffering, how can it be accounted for and what have we learned from this awful tragedy? It is quite possible as years bring revelations and we are made fully aware of all its reasons that we will be able to appreciate and finally learn the real value of the conflict; to demonstrate to the world the sacred worth of a promise and not treat vassals as scraps of paper in order to further their own selfish interests.

For the present let us renew our thanksgiving for the ending of the war and for the blessings of peace, and let us in our imagination place a flower on the grave of every deceased Canadian war hero in France and Flanders or wherever he may have fallen.

Do a kind action for our war maimed heroes and hold in national honor those heroes who returned after nobly fighting for justice and Democracy."

Rink Company Asks Lower W. & L. Rate

Revenue Does Not Meet Operating Costs and Require Lower Rates for Light and Water

There has been considerable discussion of late as to the method by which the rink shall be operated this winter. The expense of light and water is the item that is causing a great deal of concern on the part of the rink company, and efforts are being made with the town council and the Coleman Light & Water Co., to see if a rate can be arranged that will not be as high as last year.

It is felt that the rink being erected for the benefit of the entire community, and filling a necessary place in community life in providing recreation during the winter months, that the rink company should not have to bear the entire expense, and shoulder deficits that may result if the expenses are greater than the revenue.

Accordingly a committee from the rink company was appointed to interview the council last evening, to take up the matter of securing a much lower rate than is at present being paid for light and water.

The benefit of the rink is greatly appreciated by the majority of the citizens, and they feel that the rink company should receive the united support of the community in their efforts to maintain and operate the rink throughout the winter season.

The town has written off in taxes against the rink a total of $642.10 since it commenced operating.

Manufacturing In The West

The general impression of the prairie provinces of Canada held throughout the Eastern provinces and in other countries is that they are almost purely agricultural, and that manufacturing is practically negligible and, where carried on, is on a small scale and local in character. No doubt many Western people if asked for information on the subject would express much the same opinion. Nor would such a view have been very wide of the mark a comparatively few years ago.

With the development of oil, however, a marked change has taken place, and manufacturing along manufacturing lines is now an important feature of Western activity. Not only is this the case but development along industrial lines is proceeding at a pace which is a surprise to people who take the trouble to investigate. The extent and rapidity of this growth is only realized when actual official statistics are studied and comparisons made from year to year.

The gathering and compilation of statistics of this kind is slow and laborious work, and considerable time must of necessity elapse before all returns from many industries are obtained and classified. Latest available figures, therefore, are always for a period of one or two years back. Recently the Dominion Bureau of Statistics issued a report on the manufacturing industries of the prairie provinces for the calendar year 1925, comparing them with the figures for 1924. The growth indicated in this twelve month period is as follows:

For the year 1925 the number of manufacturing industries reported was practically the same as for 1924, but the gratifying fact is disclosed that these industries substantially increased their capital, employed more men, worked largely increased their wage bills, utilized larger quantities of materials, produced many more millions of dollars worth of goods of all kinds, and operated on a much more profitable basis.

Capital invested in manufacturing industries in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta increased by $14,000,000 during 1925, and at the end of that year amounted to $221,775,000.

The number of employees increased by over 6,000 during the year with the result that no less than 27,178 people are now engaged in some form of manufacturing industry on the prairies. To these 27,178 people salaries and wages were paid aggregating $42,827,000, or nearly eight million dollars more than those preceding year.

Materials used by the several industries during 1925 had a value of $145,322,000, and the value of goods of over $21,500,000 over the preceding year.

Through the application of labor and the use of these materials, goods having a gross value of $229,352,000 were produced, or an increase of $25,541,600 over 1924. In other words, the prairie provinces in 1925 turned out on the average twenty million dollars worth of manufactured goods per month, or three million dollars per month more than in the preceding year.

Analyzing these figures to some extent, it will be seen that manufacturing industries in the west, after paying $21,500,000 more for materials, and $8,000,000 more in salaries and wages, increased the net value of production in the year by an amount equal to the total increase in the amount of capital invested.

Those who are familiar with western conditions, and the decided improvement which has taken place within the last two years, know that the growth in western industry disclosed by these figures between 1924 and 1925 has been further accelerated between 1925 and 1927. Recent water power and other developments in all three prairie provinces, and the decided increase in interest both at home and abroad, in the natural resources of the West, give confidence that in a few years more the industrial activities of the prairies will be a factor of importance in the economic life of the whole Dominion.

New Terror For Criminals

Process Discovered For Making Permanent Fugitive Prints On Body

Brown finger prints that appeared suddenly all over the back of a patient being treated with a certain solution of ultraviolet rays by Dr. M. A. Aaronson, of New Jersey, caused much excitement.

They were Dr. Aaronson's own marks and apparently he had a secret device to serve his purpose for detecting and making as permanent as desired any finger print on a body, a find of great importance in criminalology.

By this new method, the suspected flesh will be brushed with a secret solution and, on exposure to ultra-violet rays, the finger prints will be revealed. Rubbing will not remove the marks. They can only be scrubbed off.

Machine Could Be Adapted To Cookery

Bakes Potato In Sixty Seconds And Cooks Steak In Thirty

Experiments are being made in London with a view to applying to rapid cookery the principle of the new diathermic electrical apparatus which is now used only medically for the treatment of pneumonia, rheumatism, arthritis and other rheumatic affections.

It is claimed that recent tests show that the apparatus could bake a potato in 60 seconds, roast a steak in 20 seconds and fry an egg in two seconds.

The apparatus is considered especially adaptable to cookery because it introduces an intense internal heat.

Carrier Pigeon Valuable In War

Is Still Considered Important Factor Despite Changing Methods

Changing methods of warfare are continually passing in review before the United States war department. One very old-fashioned means of wartime communications, the carrier pigeon, continues to be a considered factor.

"Its usefulness as a carrier of dispatches," says Frederick C. Lincoln of the United States bureau of survey, "is still a prominent piece of our communication methods that will be employed by the armies of the future."

"The most famous war pigeon was the 'Ami' which, released with a message October 21, 1914, at 2:35 p.m., during an intense machine gun and artillery action, delivered its messages 40 kilometers away in 25 minutes.

Queer Tribe Of Africa

Balls Have Custom Of Knocking Out Their Front Teeth

Yet another African tribe which is interesting because of its peculiar customs in the public eye. This is the Balla tribe, and the Balla have come into trouble before they came under British administration. In 1880, Solous, the famous hunter-explorer had difficulties with them, and the story goes that he escaped to a more friendly tribe clad only in his shirt. Though the custom is beginning to die out, it is a very ancient fashion of the Balla to knock out all their front teeth. For this reason Balla language presents unique phonetic peculiarities. The half of the mouth is always worked up into a cone about six inches high at the back of the head, and then studded with brass-headed nails. Sometimes this is exceeded by a stick to the length of four feet.

British Empire Stronger

Constitution More Effective Since Dominion Capitals Made Equal

"Since the last Imperial Conference the British Empire has been cut up into a number of independent states; London no longer is the capital of the Empire; the Dominion capitals are absolutely equal," declared Prof. Alfred Zimmerm in an address at Kluge College, Cambridge University.

"This perhaps is the biggest and bravest single surrender of power ever made by a government." Prof. Zimmerman continued. "Speaking of equality, the Empire has been disrupted, but this constitution experiment has given the Empire a far more effective constitution than ever before."

Prof. Zimmerman is assistant director to the League of Nations, Institute of Intellectual Co-operation, in Paris. He was connected with the political intelligence branch of the British foreign office 1918-19.

May Broadcast Storm Warnings From Greenland

Messages Could Be Sent To Ships Two Days In Advance

From the summits of "Greenland's ice mountains," weather prophets soon may be able to broadcast to the world warning of cyclones which work havoc in the Atlantic ocean areas and the temperate zones generally. This is the hope of Prof. William H. Hobbs, head of the University of Michigan scientific expedition who started for home aboard the Leviathan today after ten weeks studying the northern storms at the place of their beginning over the great ice gap of interior Greenland.

The expedition spent the summer at Kulusuk, east of Greenland, within the Arctic circle.

"It is probably the longest fjord in the world and a wonderful scene on a majestic scale which has been seen by few white men," said Professor Hobbs.

The Hobbs expedition established three observation stations 100 miles apart, one of them being on the summit of Mount Evans. From the observations made at these stations it is possible to radio forecasts of coming storms over the entire North Atlantic 48 hours in advance of the storm arrival over the ocean lanes.

Selected members of the University of Michigan's expedition will winter in Greenland and will send out observation balloons with small lanterns for meteorological study. Two members of the party will spend the winter in a snow cave on the island leeward for the purpose of making observations. Stakes have been placed and measurements taken for the study of glacier movements.

Working Fund Of Five Million Dollars Urged At Conference

Formation of a world narcotics defense association with a working fund of five million dollars, was urged at the first session of the conference of committees of the World Conference on Narcotic Education and the International Narcotic Educational Association at New York.

The association would be non-profit making and would have the power to utilize "all honorable means to attain the welfare of the nation and the stability and security of society everywhere against narcotic drug addiction and to acquire and maintain immunity from this universal race menace."

Two million dollars of the live million to be sought, Captain Hobson explained, would be used in hospital work; another two millions used in educational work, while the remaining million would be set aside for law activity.

CONFERENCE OF PREMIERS COMES TO CONCLUSION

Ottawa.—Appreciation of each other's viewpoints on a great variety of subjects and a much fuller degree of mutual understanding are foreseen as concrete results of the Dominion-Principals conference concluded after a full week of deliberation. The gathering, to begin with, was only a conference and possessed of no executive or administrative functions or powers definitely to decide anything. Nevertheless, those who participated feel that the time and atmosphere can well at least in some degree, find a reaction in legislative proposals. Although the delegates were divided on political allegiance, the party element was wholly submerged and the proceedings throughout, despite occasional divergence of views, were devoid of any suggestion of open discord.

The Dominion Government sought collective counsel on three or four questions while the provinces put forth their views on ten times as many. In other respects were the conclusions definite not beyond the mutual exchange of opinion.

At the outset, the question of constitutional reform arose in two phases, return of the Senate and powers to amend the British North America Act, otherwise known as the constitution. If, as is held, a change in the make-up and functions of the Senate require as a conditional precedent, the same action of the original parties to Confederation, the discussions have made it quite clear that such a proposal are not yet to be fulfilled.

A similar phase was the division of opinion as to Canada securing the power to itself amend the constitution even though such a process was designed to be circumvented with limitations if any attempted amendment invaded the sphere of provincial or minority rights. Nevertheless it is within the competence of the Government to go ahead and seek the power even though it will not be required in the course of time. No doubt, it is considered important, that, as far as possible without the approving cooperation of Parliament.

As regards the question of subsidies the move for a revision was pretty general from the provinces, although Ontario and Quebec, more fortunately situated than the rest, were not especially insistent, save to lend support to the demands of others.

In the case of tax rates, save on the determination of the spheres of taxation and different proposals were advanced, but the Dominion Government's attitude was expressed in the general statement of the finance minister that all questions of subsidies and taxes will require mutual consideration.

Respecting the fuel question, there was considerable demand for a national fuel policy but the argument was largely a re-hashing which has often been heard in Parliament.

Mr. Robb's proposal arises out of transportation costs, while the problem of Nova Scotia is influenced by production costs. The Dominion Government apparently is disinclined to go behind the railway commission's finding of the cost of coal movements from Alberta and as regards Nova Scotia it suggests improved production methods of the coal. The steel tariff is before the tariff board.

One result of the conference will be the strengthening of the law in regard to the import and export of live stock, a movement exhaustively dealt with, is to be the subject of an aftermath meeting.

All told, about 40 subjects were discussed with those, aforementioned outstanding. While the immediate results are not so apparent, all those who assented express the view that, apart from the gathering being helpful, it is likely to lead eventually to various concessions and the removal of several causes of conflict.

Are Seeking Settlement

Toronto.—T. G. Clarkson, who is one of the liquidators of the Bank of Canada, has announced that discussions are now going on with a view to settlement of the five million dollar suit brought by the liquidators against the directors of the defunct institution.

U.S. Shy On Half Dollars

Washington.—Nearly 600,000 50-cent pieces were coined last month in the mints at Philadelphia, Denver, and San Francisco, and the demand is still running ahead of the supply. Officials have been unable to account for the sudden demand, except that no half-dollars were made from 1921 to 1926.

Allowed Wave Bands For Directing Aircraft

Canada's Right To Exclusive Bands Recognized By Radio Conference

Washington.—Canada's right to exclusive wave bands for the direction of aircraft in the Dominion has been recognized by the International Radio Conference, and a wide band sufficient to take care of extensive development of commercial flying in Canada has been set aside for the sole use of Canada.

When the question of communication between aircraft and ground stations was under discussion in committee, the Canadian delegates brought up the necessity for the recognition of the needs of aircraft in the Dominion. It was pointed out that in practical application of aircraft to forest protection, survey work and other important purposes, Canada had the world. The necessity for a clear band through which aircraft could communicate regularly with ground stations, was recognized as it had been previously recognized in Europe.

"With the additional facilities," a Canadian delegate told the Canadian Press today, "it will be possible to provide for the very extensive forest protection operations in the various provinces, but also for all kinds of commercial aircraft enterprises."

Is Minister Of Railways

Geo. Spence, Maple Creek, Accepts Portfolio In Saskatchewan Government

Regina.—Appointment of Commissioner of Maple Creek as minister of railways in the Saskatchewan government was announced by Hon. S. J. Latta, acting premier.

A reorganization of the Saskatchewan government, in which the portfolios held by all the ministers, except those of Hon. Dr. J. M. Ulrich, minister of public health; Hon. C. M. Hamilton, minister of agriculture, and George Spence, minister of railways, will be re-distributed. Two already this has been killed by the Senate.

The announcement, which came from the Federal Government representatives, was that the bill, confirming the new arrangement, will be introduced in the House of Commons on Dec. 15. The bill will be introduced in the Senate.

As regards export houses, the undertaking is given that, where any province so desires, customs bonds and privileges will be denied such establishments. Any such policy, if adopted on provincial initiative will put a very large crimp in the operation of export houses, which have attracted many of the abuses which have arisen in the liquor traffic.

Another proposal of the provinces was for the reduction in the excise duties on liquor. The Minister of Finance declared that the demand for increased subsidies was not in consonance with the demand for lower excise duties, but stated that the Government was willing to listen to reason.

There was discussion on judges and a majority of the speakers favored higher salaries and uniformity in compensation of judges but little attention was paid to the question of age. It is being pointed out that some of the oldest judges were the most efficient.

Says Debt Reduction Essential For Canada

In Order To Retain Position In World Markets Declares Robb

Ottawa.—"It was essential for Canada to reduce her debt to maintain her position in the markets of the world," Hon. J. A. Robb told the provincial premiers conference here following the submission for increased subsidies and contributions to the federal treasury.

He emphasized the remarkable change growing out of the war and the maturing which the Dominion was compelled to meet from time to time.

Hon. Mr. Robb promised nothing beyond what parliament would be fit to do in the matter of increased subsidies.

Mining Investigation

The judicial inquiry being conducted this week in Coleman before Chief Justice Harvey into the disaster on Nov. 23 last at McGillivray mine is arousing unusual interest throughout the Crow's Nest Pass. Probably the actual cause of the disaster by which ten lives were lost will never be known. The investigation so far shows that the mine was carefully and efficiently operated, one miner of thirty years experience stated that it was the best he had ever worked in as far as the general working conditions were concerned, and all known precautions for safety were practiced by the officials and those responsible for the lives of the miners. As the chief justice remarked on the opening of the inquiry, mining is a hazardous occupation. No matter what precautions are taken to safeguard life, and despite the care exercised by every man working in a mine, there are natural conditions arise which make despite his knowledge and skill knows nothing of till the forces of nature have caused destruction, and even then, as in the case of this disaster at the McGillivray mine, the cause is mere conjecture.

It is a problem that is continually exercising the minds of experts on which a great deal of experimental and research work is being conducted by mining men in all countries, and no matter what safety devices and other means of detecting danger may be employed, the element of danger will always exist.

The investigation will no doubt be beneficial in not only again emphasizing the danger to those who work in mines, but in securing further information which will enable those on whom the responsibility rests of the lives of the miners to use every effort towards preventing a repetition of mining disasters.

May Solve Problems

The suggestions put forth in a news report in today's Lethbridge Herald by Frank Wheatley, president of the Canadian Mine Workers Union, are well worthy of serious consideration by all interested in the coal mining industry of Alberta. Their adoption would help to stabilize the industry, and relieve a considerable amount of the unavoidable loss occasioned by seasonal employment. Such a plan as he suggests would appear to work out beneficially to both operators and miners.

Canadian Buyers Profit by Canada's Export Trade

IN the distant reaches of British's far-flung empire you will find General Motors cars, built in Canada by Canadian craftsmen, from Canadian materials.

In five years over 110,000 automobiles have been sent overseas by General Motors of Canada to carry the standard of Canadian quality around the world.

This represents a truly important contribution to Canada's export trade.

It represents millions of dollars to be spent in wages to Canadian workmen, in the purchase of Canadian metals, wood, hides and the countless other materials entering into the manufacture of General Motors cars.

And it represents a greatly augmented production of General Motors of Canada, resulting in lower costs of manufacture, in economies of purchasing, in greater savings of time and labor through greater volume.

Thus, because in India, in Egypt, in Malta, Ceylon or South Africa, someone is buying a General Motors car from Canada, General Motors can offer to you, in Canada, a product of higher quality at a lower price than otherwise possible.

McGillivray Mine Inquiry

Huds was startled by what he described as a heavy bump at about 5:10 a.m. It was a sound he had never heard before in the mine, and he immediately began to find out if the ventilation was alright. The air seemed to come on and off for about five minutes, then finally it came on alright. He told his partner to go back to the parting, and the latter after reaching the spot shouted back to Huds to come along. What started Huds when he got there was to see a horse which had been white was now black, and he also found the rock tunnel full of smoke. He went to the compressed air line, found the air was on, then beat it back to No. 1 room, to get to No. 1 entry. Conditions there were good and no damage had been done. He there met Tom Parry, a fire hose, and they ran to room 28, where Parry told them to wait a little while, as he was going in to get the rest of the men out. Huds told him it would be no use waiting there, but after a short while Parry returned and took Huds and his partner outside.

Robert Smiley, who was on shift as a bucker from 12 to 8 a.m. on the day of the explosion, stated he was bucking for Hugh McDougall and Robert Fairfull. Very quietly he told of how they were working when they were started by a rush of air. Gus James was their foreman, and after they had talked over the cause they came to the conclusion at first that it was caused by a big cave in. James went to find out what it was, and coming back, they decided to fix up the overcast. Gus James and Earl Price, who was driving a dinkey engine, went to the telephone to advise the mine office that something was wrong. McDougall, Fairfull and Smiley fixed the overcast as best they could, then tried to find the safest way out of the mine, coming towards the main entry. Smiley, McDougall and Fairfull reached the slope, and on reaching the spot where James had telephoned from, Fairfull and Smiley dropped from the suffocating gas. McDougall came back and helped Smiley along, but Fairfull they never saw again, as it was impossible to see any distance, and they were crawling along the slope. They got to room 35, where they regained their breath, and warned as many other men as possible in that part of the mine. As soon as they reached No. 1 level the rescue party were met, at about 8:45 a.m.

High School Prize Winning Essay

The following is the entry by Jean Pattinson in the competition sponsored by Coleman branch Canadian Legion commemorative of Armistice Day.

The Poppy and Its Relation to Armistice

How can this small, not particularly beautiful flower, the poppy, be connected with the end of war? Hundreds, yes, tens of hundreds are made every year by children and disabled soldiers in hospitals. These poppies are sold on the streets and everyone wears one on Armistice Day.

The selling of these poppies is not a money making scheme although the money is used to the best advantage. The Canadian Legion take the responsibility of making and selling the poppies. They use the money for taking care of disabled soldiers and their dependents outside.

Besides these practical uses for the poppy, or the money derived from them, the emblem has a sentimental use. The scarlet in the poppy forcibly reminds us of the blood that was shed in the battlefields of France and Belgium: of those gallant heroes who went to war singing "Keep the Home Fires Burning," but never returned to see that we have kept their request.

We outwardly show our respect and gratitude to those heroes when we wear a poppy and keep silent for two minutes on the eleventh hour of the eleventh day of the eleventh month of each year.

We are apt to become impatient when we have a grievance against another country and we are inclined to shout "Let us fight it out!" But Armistice comes around again and we see sorrowing families, crippled soldiers and lastly the poppy which reminds us of those "over there" and we swallow our pride and come to peaceful terms. Generations yet unborn will feel the burden of war—can we afford to have another?

In the language of flowers the poppy means "A Tryst at Evening." Millions of the world's

The BABY

Why do so many, many babies of today escape the little cruel spirit of infantile disease that used to worry mothers through the day, and keep them up half the night?

If you don't know the answer, you haven't heard of Fletcher's Castoria. It is sweet to the taste, and sweet in the little stomach. And its gentle influence seems felt all through the tiny system. Not even a full dose of castor oil does so much good.

Fletcher's Castoria is purely vegetable, so you may give it freely, at first sign of colic; or constipation; or diarrhea. Or those many times when you don't know what to do, but you can't get your doctor to call the doctor always. At other times, a few drops of Fletcher's Castoria.

The doctor tells you to do just that; and always says Fletcher's. Other preparations may be just as pure, just as free from dangerous drugs, but they are not vegetable, so the book on care and feeding of babies that comes with Fletcher's Castoria is worth its weight in gold!

Visits Eight Countries In Nineteen Days

London Man Takes Holiday Trip Round Europe in Motor Airplane

As unconcernedly as if he had just flown from Kent, David Kitch, a young business man, stepped from his Moth airplane at Cranwell, England, after completion of a remarkable holiday tour, in which he has visited eight countries in 19 days. He left London on September 18 and reached Cologne that night. By easy stages he crossed Germany, Silesia, and Czechoslovakia to Vienna and Budapest, flew over the great Dolomite Mountains to Venice and Rome, and then headed for home.

He crossed the Alps at an altitude of 10,000 feet, passed over Switzerland to get to Paris, and ended his tour by flying alongside a big air liner from Paris to London.

"I had no trouble anywhere," he said.

Selling Automobiles Over the Counter

Department Store in Paris Has Introduced the Idea

Automobiles are being sold over the counter in a large department store in Paris, according to a report received by the United States department of commerce from Herman Schuster, assistant automotive trade commissioner, who says that purchasers may buy for one-fourth cash and the balance in twelve monthly installments. In this case for the car, in the same manner as for the modern touch that the idea carries, for nothing has become so standard in such a short time as the automobile. The makers of all types are striving for excellence, and in shopping over the counter all has to do is to express a preference for the power desired, the color and the model. This is service to be sure, but it does take away some of the thrill and the anticipation of buying a car.

Eleven anthropoid apes, traveling first class, were recently arrived at Vienna from Nice on the Simplon Orient Express. MICAH CHAMPIONS THE OPPRESSED

Golden Text: "Its hand shewed thee, O man, what is good; and what doth Jehovah require of thee but to do justice, and to love kindness, and to walk humbly with the God!"—Micah 6:8.

Lesson: Micah, chapters 2, 3, 6 and 7-14.

Devotional Reading: James 1:22-27.

Explanations and Comments

1. The Cross of the Weekdayans. Then—Punishment, 2:12—We to them that devil impurity and work evil upon their bed." cries the prophet. "When the morning is light, they practice it; when it is dark, they continue it; and they cover their shame with their hand." Micah is here arraigning the wealthy classes. He charges them with lying awake at night to get the better of their schemes; when daylight comes, because they had the power. They covet the poor, and then lie about it.

"They covet fields, and seize them as Abah did Naboth's vineyard; and houses and take them away; and they appropriate them as their own."

"The prophet does not detail the steps of the process of self-thorough foreclosing, mortgaging, and finally taking of inheritance, etc., bribery of judges, and the like. No legal procedure can make right in Micah's eyes the fact that his poor neighbors are being driven from their homesteads in the grasping rich; compare 1 Kings 21: 1-10; Hosea 5:10; Isaiah 5:8—J. M. P. Smith.

The spirit of Helm's hard-working, soap-making, dithrathum grandmothers stirred at the sight before her. Her long, capable hands creaved a chance to show what they could do with the travel-stained, tear-wet, much begrimed family before her, mother and all. The mother was at a low ebb—skirt crooked, belt wholly inadequate to cover the connection between skirt and blouse, hair in strands, hair net dragging one hairpin, shoe-lace untied, heel cracked; but she had dropped, and had little to complain of.

"Let me have him," said Helm, reaching out for the five-year-old. "I will wash him." The family stopped all its activities; arrow-root biscuits were discarded; the seven-year-old, who was riding the back of a seat shouting "Ride 'em, Cowboy!" paused open-mouthed; Maude in surprise relinquished the nut-bar, at least as much of it would leave her hand. "I have a little wash-room of my own," she said. "We'll take his clothes," said Helm. "He's come with us, you know, while the family looked on in dumb amazement. 'Ma, isn't that the limit,' whispered Maude in wonder, "that thought she was a lady."

Charlie came back in due course shivering from applications of soap and water. His garments were mended, his hair brushed, his ears pink as coral and shining inside and out. His clothes were straightened and brushed, and he smelled freshly of toilet water and powder. He held a new five-cent piece in his hand, and his spirit was suddenly more serene. The others were taken in and washed, and dressed—except, the mother last of all—while Helm stayed with the cook, who sat very staid and dignified in their new state of cleanliness. Helm sang to them in English, then in Finnish, the lullaby that had been sung in her by her over-worked mother.

The conductor passing saw with surprise the change that had come into this nest of stormy potels, and the same thoughts came to him that Helm had expressed. "Well, I think it's a funny way about this," he said to himself. Then he listened. He recognized the Finnish songs, having worked with Finns in the lumber-camps near Port Arthur; before he went west on the road. His brows corrugated and one eye was shut tight. He went to the end of the car and sat down to think it over. He read the telegram again. Then he shook his head slowly. It was curious.

"Just before Edmonton was reached the conductor knocked again at Helm's door. She received him with the air of languor and the lifted eyebrows. Again she asked him to sit down, and he reluctantly agreed. But in quiet tones he noted that all her things were packed away. "Here is your ticket, madam," he said politely. "Will you please give me back the sly I gave you. You ticked it for Ercio Mines," I notice. A funny thing happened yesterday. Just before we reached Rivers I had a wire from Wimipeg asking me to be on the lookout for a young French girl who had escaped from the Girls' Friendly Home in Winnipeg. They seem to think she's on this train but I certainly can't find her."

"Well, if she's here, we'll be looking for her there, sure. She had better stay right on and get off at some little place. Now, that place you're going to would be all right, for she'll be watching for her there, sure."

Helm admitted that she did.

"Well, don't count on you," over them before breakfast, for they're twenty miles away. Walk towards the mountains, then the timber line, then the prairie, then the bush, then the country—a person doesn't seem to be able to get much nearer, in fact, you do well if you can hold your own."

Helm thanked him, and, taking her valise, walked across the narrow platform. Looking up the river she could see far into the mountains, for the river channel is wide and its general direction unbroken.

Around the station buildings were huddled the miners' houses, all of the same pattern, all of new lumber and unpainted.

The bottom of the canyon, on both sides of the river, is a fertile plain of deep black loam, which in summer is covered with heavy grass and peavine, but with never a cow to eat it, for the miners were not given to domesticity. The company which owned the mines was seized by the desire to root their men in the soil when the first winter came, so they sent to their home all the land in the canyon, which covers a flat township of six miles square, and gave to each man who signed on for a year a tract of twenty-five acres; but so far not much success had come, for the miners when their eight hours were over had little inclination to plant or hoe. Even the mine manager, who could discourse nobly on the subject of giving the worker a stake in the country, was not able to put his foot through the photograph of civilization he had laid, not a single man in his own twenty-five acres of ground, nor indeed removed the pile of clay which had been excavated for the basement of his house. When a man can earn three hundred dollars a month and has a rent-free house, it hardly seems fitting that he should spend his leisure time manufacturing young onions or confirming the feeble knees of spindly young cabbages.

The man with Ercio Mines was the only one who continued to stay. A mine may give out and who knows where the seam may end? There were cuttings, to be sure, all around the mine, but there were foldings, and cross faultings, and in some of these interbedded shale, which in creased the ash and therefore raised the mining cost.

Must Have Artistic Ability

Or Bush Negroes Of Dutch Guiana Fall As Husbands

A tribe of women who choose their husbands from the most unlikely of sources, and the subject of close study by Dr. Norton C. Kahn, of the Department of Preventive Medicine and Hygiene of Cornell University, who has just returned to New York. The tribe are the Dijkas, and bush negroes of Dutch Guiana. Those blacks are descendants of African slaves who were taken to Dutch Guiana, and won their freedom against the Dutch and English allies of the Dutch in 1750. The tribe has lived in comparative seclusion since then, being the only negroes in the Western Hemisphere who have been able to adapt ancient African customs to American conditions.

"The social organization of the Dijkas is a matriarchy," says Dr. Kahn, "descent being traced and property inherited through the mother. In order to win a wife a man must show ability in artistically decorating kitchen utensils, household objects, and articles of personal adornment. A woman judges a man's eligibility as a guitar largely by his power to turn, and the more skillfully he can play, the greater his chances of being accepted.

It is the custom of the tribe that the head of the family was brought over from Africa. After winning a wife a man must continue his output of highly adorned domestic articles, and he will lose her. All she has to do is to show the council of the tribe that her husband is not doing this and she divorces him. At the same time polygamy is practised. An exceptionally rapid worker and successful hunter may maintain two or more wives.

It seems probable that the artistic instinct of the people has been cultivated by the constant hunting expeditions which require the man to please the woman with a continuous production of handsome objects. The Dijkas are proud of themselves because of their ancient victory over the whites and their continued independence. They have handed down over a history of the exploits of their great men, and they speak with thinly-disguised contempt of the white men because unless the whites have the majesty and underhand ways of the Indians.

Tobacco leaves serve as money, but canisters are regarded as a sort of bonus and will not be accepted in trade. They must be "thrown in" by the white traders who seek to preserve the good will of the Dijkas. A trader who is disliked has his evil report signalled from village to village by drum beats and makes no progress anywhere.
